-Ice water, according to medical authority, kills more persons than strichnine loes. It should be taken in great moderation and slowly sipped at a time-never guined. It should be absolutely avoided at meals. Taken into the mouth directly after hot food it cracks the enamel of the teeth, and entering the sto much it chills the natural fluids, so that they are unlitted for the work of digestion, thus laving the foundation for a thousand evils. The use of moderately cool water not only averts these, but slakes the thirst much better than the ice cold fluid.

Portage Man in Trouble. The Altoona Tribune of Thursday says: charles McKenzie, a resident of Portage, came to town yesterday, evidently to have a good time. In the early portion of the evening he cultivated a jag of the pronounced type, then started out to let the people know of it. About 8:30 o'clock last vening he struck Gespei Hill, where, exhilirated by the mixture of fresh air and um, he fairly sizzled over. With a 38calibre revelver in his hand he journeyed to Seventcenth avenue and Sixteenth street, where he burst like a cyclone on a bevy of women, scattering them right and left as he held his revolver in the air and ischarged it promisenously.

The frightened women fled screaming to their homes, but the bad man from Porage was not yet satisfied with the wild excitement he was creating. Finding a gate open he rushed into a Seventeenth avenue home, yelling like a Comanche and njured on Monday by being attacked by a | banging his revolver at each yelp. Women and children fled wildly in every direction, and in a few minutes the hill was agog with excitement. The most discouraging of all Americans is the man who, with an air sometimes of superior virtue, declares, 'I take no interest in politics, I seldom, if ever, vote."

To Celebrate a Century.

Next month the old town of Huntingdon rill celebrate the end of its first hundred years of existence, and, like the American, when he does anything, it will be done with considerable enthusiasm. Huntingdon is a picture-que settiement among the mountains, and has been, from the date of its founding, one of the historic points in the state. Unfortunately, it could never strike the industrial gait that is always the ambition of the yankee community. But in spite of its disappointments, Huntingdon is progressive and modern. A great many lines of business are followed in the old town, and many places would be glad of the things that the inhabitant of Huntingdon sometimes counts as of little

Huntingdon has had evil luck in some of its aspirations. Big enterprises have not all passed the town by, but some that promised well have been overtaken with disaster, which does not argue, however, that such will always be the case. Still, it is not as an industrial town that Huntingdon is best known. The student of Pennsylvania history recalls it as one of frontier outposts, one of the links that bound civilization to the advance guards who crossed the summits and cut out the empire that has grown up in the "west." And long after the stirring frontier post had seen the real limbs of civilization pass far beyond it, it became a point of importance on the canal, as it did later when the railroad was pushed up the valley. Here again fate treated the community harshly, for the railroad and canal, as well as the march of the pioneer, stopped with Huntingdon only long enough to encourage the mmunity, and then moved further west-

But Huntingdon has thrived, at any rate, and the man who comes from the thrifty community never has to carry a map to explain where his town is. Wherefore the people of the said little city have ample cause to celebrate next month and to be proud of their town. Huntingeon is In the course of his speech the other day all right, and has still more centuries ahead of her to grow and prosper in.-Pittsburg Times.

Escaped from His Keepers.

All day long on Friday last a respectable looking, man rode one the Bridesburg, Philadefphia, trolley cars. He paid his fare promptly, and therefore evoked no omment, until each conductor had taken him over the entire length of the route several times. Finally two conductors menioned the queer actions of the trolley-car rider to one another, and Policeman Schmidt, of the Twenty-fourth district, was informed. When the latter had made up his mind to at least have a talk with the persistent trolley passenger, he had

Shortly before midnight he was discovered wandering aimlessly about in the meadows near Bridesburg. Although to most questions the obviously deranged man gave queer replies, he furnished Schmidt with his correct name, which he said was John Thompson. Investigation revealed that the unbalanced man was 30 years old, married, and a resident of Curwensville, Clearfield county. On Thursday last several of his relatives left home with him, to take him to an asylum in Ph ladelphia, but he escaped from them. The police immediately informed Thompson's relatives of his apprehension.

Constables' Fees Cut Down Judge Bell, at Hollidaysburg, Thursday, handed down an opinion in the case of Constable John Roe, of Altoona, against the Blair county commissioners for serving subpoenas issued in the court.
